

DOWIE OUT, DOGS IN BIG GARDEN

Seventeen Hundred Barks in Various Keys Heard at This Exhibition of Ladies' Kennel Association.

INTEREST IN BULLDOGS.

Richard Croker, Jr., is Judge, and there is a fine collection of the species, chained and guarded, on view.

Imagine 1,700 dogs of all sizes, breeds and nationalities barking incessantly and you will have some idea of the bedlam in Madison Square Garden today when the doors were thrown open for the third annual exhibition under the auspices of the Ladies' Kennel Association.

There were dogs and dogs and dogs, hounds, bulls, terriers, setters, pointers, beagles, St. Bernards, tiny black and tans, smaller even than Mrs. Campbell's Nanki Panki Poo; queer Japanese dogs without hair, Russian white hounds, Siberian bloodhounds, and, in fact, dogs from almost every country in the world.

Most of the interest of those who are not exhibitors was centered in the bulldogs, of which Richard Croker, Jr., is the judge. Among the most notable entries in this class are Fashion, owned by Thomas W. Lawson; Cross Roads, owned by Richard Harding Davis; Rodney Monarch, Mrs. Francis Roche; Rodney Monarch, Mrs. W. Lawson; Ivel Damon, Mrs. Chas. K. Harley; Buster, Mrs. Lillian O. Tappan; Borko, Mrs. Balfour; Taysand, Mrs. Lillian O. Tappan; L'Amateur, Mrs. F. B. Thompson; Lady Somerset and many others, all looking for the first prize.

Prizes in Various Classes.
The prizes in each class are as follows: First prize $15 and blue ribbon. Second prize $10 and red ribbon. Third prize $5 and yellow ribbon.

Besides the Ladies' Kennel Association offered special prizes for various classes. Among the entries in the French bulldog class were Dick de la Mare II and Sarah, both from the Aquehug Farm Kennels.

Many of the French poodles and toy Japanese spaniels were in glass cases. Mrs. R. Harrison exhibited the champion in that class, Koble. Mrs. A. A. Marks brought her champion St. Bernard, Uncle Remus.

In the setter class the exhibit of Mrs. William R. Lowe, Ed's Choice, a prize winner with seven little puppies, attracted most attention. Before the doors were opened to-day Fourth avenue from Twenty-sixth to Twenty-seventh street was blocked off and an enormous throng of people, moving vans, cabs and hackmen all filled with dogs for the show. As each batch of arrivals was released from boxes and chained to the back of the kennels the yelling and barking increased in volume and discord. Now and then a fight would start that took a half dozen attendants to stop. This was especially so over on the side where the bulls are on exhibition. All morning there was the greatest kind of confusion.

Judges and Officers Late.
The judges and officers of the show were late. Women sat by their respective pets, combed their hair, tied fancy ribbons around their necks and fed them about every ten minutes.

The officers of the association are: Mrs. James W. Kernochan, President; Mrs. J. J. Venable, Vice-President; Mrs. Perry Belmont, Treasurer; Mrs. B. W. Evans, Secretary. The Dog Show Committee is composed of Mrs. Kernochan, Mrs. Evans and Miss L. Alger.

REFUSES TO TELL WHO STABBED HIM

"I'll Attend to That Myself," Says Eight-Year-Old Jeremiah Bates, "As Soon as I Get in the Street."

Stabbed a few inches above the heart and now lying at his home, No. 494 Park avenue, Brooklyn, in a serious condition, Jeremiah Bates, eight years old, refuses to tell either his mother or the police who is responsible for the wound, which was inflicted by a pen-knife.

"I will attend to that myself," said Jeremiah, "as soon as I get out in the street. This is my affair."

The lad returned from school yesterday and his mother called his attention to scratches on his face and hands. The boy said they did not amount to much and soon disappeared from the house. Hardly had he closed the door when the mother was startled to find several of the boy's playmates carrying him into the house. He had fainted on the sidewalk.

Dr. Winters, of No. 644 Wiloughby avenue, was called and after undressing the lad found that he had a deep wound under the left arm in the region of the heart. This was quickly dressed, but to all the questions put by the boy's mother or the physician he steadfastly refused to answer. The matter has been referred to the police, who are investigating the case. Dr. Winters says the boy will recover.

BIG HUNT IN FULL CRY AFTER THE ANTLERED STAG

Pink-Coated Throng Starts After Deer at Morristown to Music of Farmers' Laughter.

Hark! 'Tis the deer hunter's horn. We must rise early this morn'. Though we have to get up. Still the hound and the pup Are waiting below in the corn. The star like the swallow will fly. The hounds will pursue in full cry. To the rule farmer folk We will be a big joke. And they'll laugh as our hunters fly by. —Bushong Hunting Ballads.

All the farmers around Morristown, N. J., were up bright and early this morning, each and every one wearing an expansive grin, such as is only seen on circus days or during the county fair. Almost at dawn they began to stir and the Cobb and Foote farms and took their places on the rail fences where they could have a good view of the pink-coated society hunters who had arranged for a stag hunt to-day.

All the social colonies from Lenox and Lakewood to Hempstead had sent participants and gayly garbed men and women were up with the lark inspecting their mounts, adjusting their habits and screwing their monocles firmly into position.

"By jove, old chap," said one of the hunters to another, "it's just like dear old England, I think, when I think of the country's really getting civilized."

A stag which had been kept in Ben Nicoli's barn for several days, was liberated and given a few minutes' start. Then society's brave hunters swept after in full cry. At the sound of the hunt master's horn the Essex hounds were started and in five minutes they were on the fast-flying stag. As the hunt swept over the hill pink coatals were aye in the breeze, green, blue, gray and black habits were flapping, farmers were

THE BAD MAN FROM THE WEST IS DEAD

He Was James Cleary, Former Champion Middle-Weight Pugilist, and He Had Killed a Man in Montana.

James Cleary, known to every sporting man and prize fighter in the West, and called "The Bad Man from the West," because of his love for fighting, was found dead in bed in Cohen's hotel, No. 107 West Forty-second street to-day. The gas jet was turned on full. The room was filled with gas. Death had been caused by suffocation.

Cleary was formerly champion middle-weight pugilist of the coast. He fought all through the West, but some years ago he killed a man in Montana and was sent to prison. He recently served out his sentence, but prison life had not improved his health. He was 6 feet 2 inches and when he left prison he tipped the scales at 350 pounds. To train down to anything like prize-fighting weight was impossible. So Cleary came East and secured a position as a drummer. He returned yesterday from a trip through the Eastern States.

Big Cleary entered Cohen's hotel last night. He said that his home was in Newburg and that his wife would join him at the hotel during the night. After several drinks Cleary complained of feeling sleepy. He retired to his room, telling the clerk to admit his wife when she came, later in the night.

Gas was detected as coming from Cleary's room in the early morning. Investigation showed that the former pugilist was unconscious. His body was still warm, but it is believed that he was even then dead. An attempt was made to get a physician, but several refused to be called out of bed. After a long delay one was secured. He said that Cleary was dead.

The wife did not come to the hotel, and Cleary's relatives in Newburg were informed. They gave orders that the body be sent there for burial.

"It is believed that Cleary came to his death accidentally."

ITALIAN DOCTOR IS ASPHYXIATED

Dr. Louis Ronchi, twenty-six years old, a graduate of the Royal Medical College of Rome and son of a distinguished Italian physician, was found dead in bed to-day by his brother, Prof. Carlos Ronchi, in his room on the top floor of the boarding-house at No. 216 West Twenty-third street. The young physician had accidentally turned on the gas to a heating stove while turning off the gas-jet before going to bed last night. He had been dead from gas-poisoning several hours when found by his brother.

Dr. Ronchi came to New York but two weeks ago from Italy. He intended to begin practice here and had a number of letters of introduction from the Italian nobility. His brother, the professor, is an orchestra leader and orchestra conductor who has been in the country but a few months. Until last night they occupied a room together. Then, as better accommodations were available, Dr. Ronchi was given a room by himself on the top floor.

The accident which caused his death was due to the fact that the gas fixture in the room he occupied was complicated by being fitted with a tube leading to a gas heater.

CHRONIC SORES Signs of Polluted Blood.

There is nothing so repulsive looking and disgusting as an old sore. You worry over it till the brain grows weary and work with it until the patience is exhausted, and the very sight of the old festering, sickly looking place makes you irritable, despondent and desperate.

A chronic sore is the very best evidence that your blood is in an unhealthy and impoverished condition, that your constitution is breaking down under the effects of some serious disorder. The taking of strong medicines, like mercury or potash, will sometimes so pollute and vitiate the blood and impair the general system that the merest scratch or bruise results in obstinate non-healing sores of the most offensive character.

Often an inherited taint that has been lurking in the blood since birth breaks out in frightful eating sores upon the limbs or face in old age or middle life. Whenever a sore refuses to heal the blood is always at fault, and while antiseptic washes, salves, soaps and powders can do much to keep down the inflammation and cleanse the sore, it will never heal permanently till the blood itself has been purified and the deadly germs and poisons destroyed, and with S. S. S. this can be accomplished—the polluted blood is purified and invigorated, and when rich, pure blood is again circulating freely throughout the body the flesh around the old sore begins to take on a natural color, the discharge of matter ceases and the place heals over.

S. S. S. is both a blood purifier and tonic that puts your blood in order and at the same time tones up the system and builds up the general health. If you have a chronic sore write us. No charge for medical advice.
